

AireCore

Storage Solutions for Healthcare

Where wood or metal construction falls short, AireCore rises to the challenges of healthcare-appropriate storage

High-velocity heated air flow adheres edge banding to cabinet without seams or glue lines

High-pressure laminate

High-density polyethylene

PVC core between two sheets of aluminum

AireCore supports infection-prevention measures.

- AireCore is resistant to water, chemicals, and corrosion.
- Edge banding is free of seams and glue lines and resistant to moisture and bacteria. Won't collect dirt or chip over time.
- AireCore's construction is superior to wood-constructed products in preventing bacterial growth.

AireCore keeps up its appearance.

- AireCore provides the rigidity of metal without the dings, dents, scratches, or print marks.

AireCore is design friendly.

- AireCore casework and cabinets can be finished in any laminate.
- AireCore can be styled with roll-top or hinged doors and glass or solid fronts.
- AireCore can be customized to the size and style you require.
- AireCore with brushed stainless laminate offers the look of stainless steel and the same nonporous surface, but at a much lower price point.
